

FEMALE ENFORCERS

Special Two-Day Course

HOST: Utah Peace Officers Association

LOCATION: Salt Lake City Police Department Pioneer Division
1040 West 700 South • Salt Lake City, UT 84104

DATE: March 11-12, 2019 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Our nation's women warriors have spoken: they want more! At the height of success of its Female Enforcers course, Calibre Press is taking it a step beyond the physical, mental, and tactical training provided for professional survival. By pairing the Female Enforcers seminar with the Emotional Survival for Female Enforcers course, the often-overlooked realm of emotional/personal survival will be explored in its entirety.

One of the most dangerous wars that police officers wage is the war against post-traumatic stress (PTS) and their lack of knowledge surrounding critical incident stress management (CISM). However, this is not a major area of focus in law enforcement training. This two-day seminar will provide our Female Enforcers with additional training for professional AND personal survival. Additionally, it will equip Them with the tools to survive the fight against one of the most dangerous opponents they could face: themselves.

The training provided by combining these two high-demand courses into a two-day seminar will be invaluable to all who attend. Attendees will leave with the understanding that street survival without emotional survival is not survival.
